Monday, July 9. 1705.

From the Amst. Cour., and Leid. Gaz. dated July 14.

Bergamo, June 29.

PRince Eugene of Savoy, having caus'd his Army to file to Navi, march'd from thence the 21st Instant; and making as if he would march to the lower Oglio, on a sudden he turn'd to the Right towards Urigo, and pass'd the Oglio at Calzo, without the least Opposition from the French, who were amus'd by some small Detachments of the Imperialists, that appear'd at several Places by the River-side to favour the Passage of the main Army. General Sereni, who commanded the Vanguard, swimming his Horse over the River, was taken with a Dizziness in his Head, fell off into the Stream, and was drown'd. The whole Army having pass'd, continued their March towards the Adda, in several Columns; and 'tis not doubted will pass that River likewise, the Grand Prior of France being a long March behind them. The Troops of the 2 Crowns that were at Palazzuolo, having left in that Post 2000 Foot and 300 Horse, are gone with all Expedition, to reinforce the Troops of the Milaneze, which are posted on the other side of the Adda; but 'tis believ'd they are not strong enough to dispute Prince Eugene's Passage; and when he is got over that River, he cannot fail of compassing the Design he has form'd.

From the Paris Gazette, dated July 11.

Paris, July 11. 'Tis advis'd from Italy, that Prince Eugene having pass'd the Oglio between Palazzuolo and Soncino, is encamp'd in the Bergamasque; and that the Grand Prior of France having also pass'd that River near Ponte Vico, has posted himself within 2 Leagues of the Enemy near Soncino.

Sarouis, July 1. A Body of 8 or 10000 Men of the Enemy, is posted in the Neighbourhood of Traerbach. Besides the Detachment of 10 or 12000 Men, which the Marshal de Villars has left on the Moselle; he has sent another considerable Detachment to the Netherlands, consisting of the Gendarmerie, the King's Regiment, and other Regiments of Horse and Foot. The 28th of last Month, the Marshal de Villars encamp'd at Bouquenon, and from thence sent Order to the 2d Detachment of the Army of Alsace, which had advanc'd to Marsal, and was returning to Alsace, to join him. The 30th he was to continue his March towards Alsace.

They write from Alsace, that the Marshal de Villars having join'd the Marshal de Marfin the 3d Instant, march'd the 4th towards the Enemy's Lines, of which they made themselves Masters almost without Resistance. The same Day the Marshal de Villars entered Weissenbourg, whence he detach'd some Troops in Pursuit of the Enemy.

From the Amst. Gaz. and Harl. Cour. dated July 14.

Strasbourg, July 3. The 1st Instant several Cannon and Mortars, with Grenadoes, &c. were sent down by Land from hence to the Army; and since that Day Boats have been got together sufficient to make 2 Bridges. The said 1st Instant the Marshal de Villars arriv'd with 25000 Men at Ingenheim between Zabern and Haguenau, where the Marshal de Marfin and the Intendant of this Province met him. This Morning at 3 a Clock the Marshal de Villars's Army decamp'd to joyn the Marshal de Marfin's, and march together towards Weissenbourg. 'Tis talk'd some Troops will be sent over the Bridge of Kehl, to forage on that side of the Rhine.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated July 14.

From the Imperial Army near Lauterbourg, July 6. The 3d of this Month the Count of Hohenzolern march'd from Croon-Weissenbourg to Landau, with a Detachment of 1500 Men, to reinforce the Garrison of that Place. The 3 Regiments of Imperial Horse, of Castelli, Merci, and Lobcowitz, which had been detach'd to the Moselle, joyn'd us the same Day; and a Regiment of Foot was sent to reinforce the Garrison of Philipsbourg. The 4th a Detachment of 1600 Men of the Enemy's Army forc'd the Lines of Croon-Weissenbourg, which were defended by the new Regiment of Darmstadt; but there were no more than 65 Men of that Regiment kill'd wounded or made Prisoners, the rest retiring hither. The 5th at Day-break a strong Detachment of the Enemy's Hussars and Dragoons appear'd before our Lines here; and drove back our advanc'd Guards within Musquet Shot of our Redoubts; but the Cannon of our first Intrenchment beginning to fire upon them, they retir'd with Precipitation. While this was doing, General Thungen, accompanied by the other Generals, took an exact View of all the Posts of our Lines, and gave necessary Orders for a vigorous Defence in Case of an Attack. Mean time the Enemy's whole Army drew near to us, and after the advanc'd Guards of both sides had skirmish'd all Day, the Enemy posted themselves in the Evening within some Hundred Paces of us; where they fell to work to intrench themselves and raise a Battery of 8 Guns on a rising Ground that commands our Head-Quarter. To Day (the 6th) at Break of Day, they began to fire upon us from that Battery, but without doing us much Damage; and a little after they attack'd the Right of our Lines with great Fury; but were repuls'd thrice with considerable Loss. P. S. We have just now receiv'd a Reinforcement of 2 Regiments; and the Duke of Wirtemberg with his Troops is expected here to Morrow, as are also the Troops of Mentz and others: After which we shall be the better able to stand the Enemy.

Philipsbourg, July 7. We have Advice, that the Enemy's Army having attack'd the Lines at Lauterbourg 4 times, have been repuls'd with great Loss; and that they have likewise been hindred from laying a Bridge over the Rhine, near the Star-Port. General Thungen is very advantageously posted, having the River Lauter before him, strong Intrenchments on his Right, the Rhine on his Left, and behind him a great Wood. The Duke of Wirtemberg, being cut off by the Enemy, from marching directly to Lauterbourg, having pass'd the Rhine at Mannheim with 4000 Men arriv'd here last Night. The Prussian Troops that went towards the Moselle, and are return'd, have also pass'd the Rhine; and are to join General Thungen likewise with all Expedition. The Enemy have summon'd in 600 Peasants to level the Lines of Weissenbourg. The Magazine that was laid up at Germersheim for the Elector Palatin's Troops, in which was a very great quantity of Oars and Meal, is partly remov'd into the Fort at Germersheim, and part is brought hither. Yesterday General Thungen was reinforc'd with 9 Battallions, and 2 Regiments of Baden. 'Tis reported the Enemy are retir'd from before the Lines of Lauterbourg.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated July 14.

Frankfort, July 8. Prince Lewis of Baden continues at Swalbach. The Count de Frise is gone Post from thence to the Lines of Buhl. Letters from Switzerland advise, that Prince Eugene of Savoy having pass'd the Oglio, is advanc'd near to the Adda, to pass that River likewise: And some Advices from Piemont tell us, the Duke of Vendome is broke up from before Chivas, and in March with 3 Regiments of Horse 15 of Dragoons and 22 Battalions, to oppose the Progress of Prince Eugene. They add, he has left with the Duke de la Feuillade, only 7 Battalions and 1 Regiment of Dragoons, but this last requires Confirmation. The French have put 11 Companies into Trier, and are levelling the Lines about it. 'Tis said the Count d'Aubach is order'd to repair to Dusseldorp, and that General Rhebinder is to command the Palatin Troops in his Absence.

From the Leiden Courant, dated July 15.

Amsterdam, July 13. 'Tis advis'd from Cologne, that the Prussian and Wirtemberg Troops, have joyn'd General Thungen.

From the Paris Letter, dated July 10.

Paris, July 10. Prince Eugene of Savoy has pass'd the Oglio at the Ford of Calzo, and has since laid a Bridge there. Notwithstanding he pass'd without Opposition a great many of his Cavalry were drown'd, and among them General Serini. From whence 'tis argued, that had his Passage been at all disputed he would not have succeeded. Upon the first Advice the Grand Prior receiv'd of his Motion towards the Oglio, he march'd with all his Army in a Day and a half from Manerbo to Soncino, where his Right is encamp'd, as his Left is at Crema. The Grand Prior had dispos'd his Troops very prudently, and made this March with great Expedition notwithstanding the excessive Heats; and it might have been expected the Marquis de Toralba would have kept the Enemy in play for some Hours at least, to give him Time to joyn him. But the Marquis retir'd to Palazzuolo with 7 Battalions and 7 Squadrons that were under his Command. 'Tis discours'd this Post of Palazzuolo cannot easily be attack'd by the Enemy, having been fortified in the Winter by the Count de Medavi; and besides the Marquis de Toralba may retire to the higher side of the Adda, which the Enemy are still to pass.

The last Letters from the Duke of Vendome, are dated the 4th Instant; and import that he had Thoughts of attacking the Covert-Way of Chivas the Night following.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated July 14.

Brussels, July 10. The 2d Detachment from the Moselle, join'd the Army of the 2 Crowns the 8th Instant. To Day the 3d Detachment is expected. After which Junction, we are assur'd the Army will march out of the Lines against the Enemy.

Maastricht, July 10. The 7th Instant the Armies commanded by the Duke of Marlborough and Monsieur d'Auverquerque made a Motion: The Head Quarters continue at Lens Des Beguines. But Monsieur d'Auverquerque with his Army advanc'd from Tourine to Vigamont, to cover the Siege of Huy; and there continues.

From the Amst. Gaz. and Courant, dated July 14.

Maastricht, July 11. The Enemy continue in their Lines; and though they boast they will come out again after they have receiv'd all their Reinforcements from the Moselle, we learn they have sent Men to work on a new Line, a Mosquet-shot within the other. Their Men desert daily in great Numbers. The Hussars of the Duke of Marlborough's Army have been in the Enemy's Lines, and brought of some Booty. Lieutenant General Baron Spar, was to move from Riemen in Flanders with the Troops he commands the 9th or 10th Instant.

From the Camp at Lens des Beguines July 13.

The 9th Instant a Battery of 12 Pieces of Cannon with 6 Mortars began to play upon Fort Picard, with such Effect, that Lieutenant General Scholten made the Disposition the same Afternoon for attacking the Fort; and our Men having with great Bravery beat the Enemy out of the Covert-Way, were climbing up the Fort with the like Resolution: which the Enemy perceiving, endeavour'd to save themselves by Flight, but could not do it without some Loss, and 17 with the commanding Officer were taken Prisoners. The Enemy had 2 hours before quitted Fort Rouge, so that in 4 hours time we were Masters of both Forts with very little Loss on our side. The 10th a Battery of 12 Guns and several Mortars were brought to play against the Cattle. The 11th a Battery was rais'd in Fort Joseph, and with the other fir'd so successfully, that the Enemy thinking the Breach sufficient beat a Parley at 4 a Clock, and desir'd Leave to march out and to be conducted to Namur; which being refus'd, in the Evening they surrendred on the same Terms as were allow'd the Dutch Garrison, and were made Prisoners; our Men taking Possession of the Cattle at the same Time. The Garrison consisted of 500 Men commanded by Monsieur de St. Pierre a Brigadier in the French Troops; besides whom there was likewise a Governour of the Elector of Cologne's Nomination. The 12th the Garrison march'd out, in Number 150 Men, besides the sick and wounded, and were sent with a Guard to Maastricht. Monsieur Scholten began this Afternoon to re-embark the Artillery and Ammunition, which will be ready to fall down the Maese to Morrow, and in 2 or 3 Days the Troops employ'd in this Siege will joyn the Army, having suffer'd very little Loss. This Day (the 13th) the Duke of Marlborough review'd all the Horse of the Right Wing of our Army, as he did those of the Left the 11th; and found them in a very good Condition, especially considering the great Marches they have had from the Moselle. To Morrow his Grace intends to review the first Line of Foot.
